leva posted Augusté's picture in a social network and wrote about the situation. However, the beginning was difficult. leva told about the girl waiting for help to the school community, during classes, breaks and parents' meetings. leva and her friend Eligija wove bracelets and sold them. They also sold fruit and vegetables from a garden and collected donations. According to leva, she believed there were a lot of sincere people, and simply knew it was necessary to collect such amount of money

She has got time to do everything

Living with a difficult disease, leva proves herself that she is stronger than her illness and troubles of other people. Collecting money for a little girl's treatment, leva meets more children and youth who need help. Though she is engaged in a missionary activity and does a voluntary work, she has enough time for studies, piano classes, karate training where she has been exercising for several years.
